

INCONTINENCE ARTICLE HAVING A BACK GUARD

Abstract

5 An incontinence article having a back guard is provided. In particular, the present invention provides an incontinence article in which a back guard extends from a rear portion of the article to a middle back area of a user. The back guard article preferably includes an absorbent material and optional elastic.